## Cautions:

1. Do not use the EcoFire Camping Stove indoors or in enclosed spaces. Always use it in a well-ventilated area to prevent carbon monoxide buildup.
2. Do not touch the stove or fuel canister while they are hot. Allow them to cool down completely before handling.
3. Do not place flammable materials, such as tents, clothing, or paper, near the stove while it is in operation.
4. Do not leave the stove unattended while it is in use. Always keep an eye on the flame and cooking process.
5. Do not use the stove with damaged or leaking fuel canisters. Inspect the canister before each use and replace if necessary.
6. Do not disassemble or modify the stove in any way. Any modifications can lead to unsafe operation and void the warranty.
7. Do not attempt to ignite the stove without following the proper ignition procedure outlined in the user guide.
8. Do not use the stove for purposes other than outdoor cooking. It is designed specifically for camping and outdoor use.
9. Do not overload the stove with oversized or heavy cookware. Use cookware that is suitable for the size and weight capacity of the stove.
10. Do not leave the stove dirty or greasy after use. Clean it thoroughly using mild detergent and water before storing.

Following these cautions will help ensure safe and optimal operation of the EcoFire Camping Stove.
